Jacqueline Ruiz

Global Top Latina Keynote Speaker

To some, Jacqueline is known as a “Dream Catcher,” to others, a “Visionary Strategist,” an “Expert Manifestor,” a “Lander of Dreams,” an “Inspirational Fairy Godmother,” but in reality, she is someone passionate about elevating others. Her entire life has been marked by the sense of urgency to serve. She understands that the way to abundance and magix (magic x 10) is through creating an emotional connection with others and help them achieve their dreams. If she is not running her two award-winning businesses, her two nonprofit organizations, jet setting the world to inspire audiences or flying her sports airplane, you will find her coming up with a unique product/idea to inspire others, writing in her precious journal or mentoring a young Latina.

Here are some her biggest accomplishments to date:

- Learned English at the age of 14.
- Learned German at the age of 16.
- Survived cancer at the age of 21 and 23.
- Graduated from the Stanford Latino Entrepreneurship Initiative.
- Became a licensed pilot, one of the few Latina sports airplane pilots in the US.
- Published 29 books at the age of 38.
- Created two award winning businesses starting at the age of 23.
- Became a millionaire at the age of 37.
- Spoke and presented her books in 4 continents.
- Completed 3 European tours.
- Invited to the New York Times, 3 times.
- Featured in some of the most exclusive media outlets, including 3 magazine covers.
- Created the largest collection of Latina stories in a book anthology series, “Today’s Inspired Latina.”
- Created the first-ever Latinas in Aviation Global Festival along with the first-ever book, magazine.
- Created two nonprofit organizations, one in the US and one in Mexico.
- Currently learning Japanese and working on her second pilot’s license.

If you are looking for a speaker with experience, business acumen and heart, Jacqueline is the right one.
